From The Things Themselves Architecture And Phenomenology:

From the Things Themselves Benoit Jacquet, Vincent Giraud, 2012-03 Thinking architecture requires a revealing of the bond that links it to the full spectrum of phenomena This means to replace architecture on its own phenomenological ground from which it has too often been severed It will thus become manifest that the work of architects and architectural practice itself does not solely deal with things but primarily emerges from the things themselves In 21 texts From the Things Themselves presents approaches relating architecture to phenomenology and vice versa The philosophies of Husserl Heidegger and Merleau Ponty are revisited and experienced through a large array of architectural realizations from the virtual world of Second Life the poetical and spiritual worlds of Greek temples Cistercian or Baroque churches Chinese and Japanese gardens to the work of contemporary architects This book made in Kyoto is grounded in a particular cultural landscape where local and foreign traditions have blurred into modern realities To the philosopher it provides a precise analysis of concrete cases thus permitting a testing of the relevance and effectiveness of salient concepts both aesthetical and ethical The architect on the other hand is presented with a reflexive gaze on everyday work as well as the tools with which to rethink the reality of architectural practice

Architecture in Abjection Zuzana Kovar, 2017-11-30 This book marks a turning point in architectural theory by using philosophy to examine the field anew Breaking from the traditional dualism within architecture which presents the body as subject and space as object it examines how such rigid boundaries can be softened Zuzana Kovar thus engages with complementary and complex ideas from architecture philosophy feminist theory and other subjects demonstrating how both bodies and bodily functions relate deeply to architecture Extending philosopher Julia Kristeva's notion of abjection the confrontation of one's own corporeality as something is excreted Kovar finds parallels in the concept of the scaffold Much like living bodies and their products can impact on the buildings that house them old skin cells create dust menstrual blood stains our breath heats and cools surfaces scaffolding is similarly ephemeral and yet not entirely separable from the architecture it supports Kovar shifts the conversation about abjection towards a more nuanced idea of architecture where living organisms building matter space decay and waste are all considered as part of a continual process drawing on the key informing works of thinkers like Gilles Deleuze and Felix Guattari to do this Including a number of experimental projects conducted in the spaces inhabited by the author herself to illuminate the theory at its core the book forms a distinguished and pioneering study designed for practitioners and scholars of architecture philosophy and visual culture alike

Is there an Object Oriented Architecture? Joseph Bedford, 2020-02-20 Bringing Graham Harman's philosophy into direct confrontation with contemporary architectural theory in new and creative ways Is There an Object Oriented Architecture provides a dialogue between Harman and six of the world's leading architectural thinkers Adam Sharr Lorens Holm Jonathan Hale Peg Rawes Patrick Lynch and Peter Carl Harman's object oriented philosophy is one that sees the universe as a carnival of equal objects with no hierarchy between humans and nonhumans In his model unicorns triangles bicycles neutrons and humans are all things with enduring essences that outlast their partial transformations It is a strikingly democratic vision of the universe that knocks humans off their ontological pedestal as arbiters of what is real It also radically challenges the very precepts of architectural theory the structure of which remains stubbornly human centric as it seeks to give form to the human being's place at the centre of the cosmos In this new book each thinker develops the implications of Harman's philosophy for the future of architecture by entering into a direct exchange with the philosopher and his thinking both questioning him and questioning with him Constancy and Change in Architecture Malcolm Quantrill, Bruce Webb, 1991

Architectural Humanities in Progress Bagoes Wiryomartono, 2022-02-02 This monograph brings three branches of philosophy together epistemology ethics and aesthetics It assesses the built environment as a case study from a phenomenological perspective Under the notion of phenomenology this study understands the built environment as the hermeneutical phenomenon of being in the life world that is experienced by people within the socio cultural and historical context of habitation Hermeneutically the built environment as a phenomenon is contextually interwoven with other phenomena within the socio cultural historical and environmental network Phenomenologically speaking the task of the study is to excavate listen to unfold divulge and reconstruct the socio culturally environmentally and historically constructed relationship between people and their built environment that build develop and elaborate the system of knowledge ethics and aesthetics By and large its nature and findings are theoretical and interdisciplinary so it will be of interest not only for philosophers but also to scholars studying urban development and anthropology

Transcendentalism Overtaken Anna-Teresa Tymieniecka, 2011-04-02 This collection offers a critical assessment of transcendentalism the understanding of consciousness absolutized as a system of a priori laws of the mind that was advanced by Kant and Husserl As these studies show transcendentalism critically informed

20th Century phenomenological investigation into such issues as temporality historicity imagination objectivity and subjectivity freedom ethical judgment work praxis Advances in science have now provoked a questioning of the absolute prerogatives of consciousness Transcendentalism is challenged by empirical reductionism And recognition of the role the celestial sphere plays in life on planet earth suggests that a radical shift of philosophy s center of gravity be made away from absolute consciousness and toward the transcendental forces at play in the architectonics of the cosmos Principles of Modern Architecture Christian Norberg-Schulz,2000 Principles of Modern Architecture is a clear concise accessible account of what the modern movement really wanted and what it achieved by one of the world s leading architectural critics A New Spirit in Architecture A.
