The Emergence of Modern Humans Erik Trinkaus, 1989 Understanding Human Evolution Jeffrey K. McKee, Frank E. Poirier, W Scott McGraw, 2015-10-16 For the one term course in human evolution paleoanthropology or fossil hominins taught at the junior senior level in departments of anthropology or biology This new edition provides a comprehensive overview to the field of paleoanthropology the study of human evolution by analyzing fossil remains It includes the latest fossil finds attempts to place humans into the context of geological and biological change on the planet and presents current controversies in an even handed manner Coming Into Being William Irwin Thompson, 1998-06-15 A stunning New Age tour through literature sculpture and science that looks at the archetype of the human ascent to the heavens Debating Humankind's Place in Nature, 1860-2000 Richard G. Delisle, 2015-07-14 This text the only one of its kind on the market surveys the development of the field of human evolution from its inception through today It provides students with a broad contrast enabling them to fully understand the value and role of current paleoanthropological research Features An historical approach Establishes for students the nature of paleoanthropology through the historical development of the field from 1860 through 2000 and shows students that paleoanthropology is a remarkably progressive field A focus on the debates in the field of human evolution especially the phylogenetic or genealogical debates Analyzes four distinct debates presented separately from their inception to the present 1 Humankind's place among the primates 2 The place of the australopithecines relative to the human line 3 Debates on human phylogeny proper 4 Proposed scenarios of hominization Presentation and analysis of the viewpoints of over 150 scholars Gives students a valuable reference work for the future includes over 1200 references in the bibliography as well as a comprehensive text for today For junior senior courses in Human Evolution and Paleoanthropology in Anthropology departments The Gap Thomas Suddendorf, 2013-11-12 There exists an undeniable chasm between the capacities of humans and those of animals Our minds have spawned civilizations and technologies that have changed the face of the Earth whereas even our closest animal relatives sit unobtrusively in their dwindling habitats Yet despite longstanding debates the nature of this apparent gap has remained unclear What exactly is the difference between our minds and theirs In The Gap psychologist Thomas Suddendorf provides a definitive account of the mental qualities that separate humans from other animals as well as how these differences arose Drawing on two decades of research on apes children and human evolution he surveys the abilities most often cited as uniquely human language intelligence morality culture theory of mind and mental time travel and finds that two traits account for most of the ways in which our minds appear so distinct Namely our open ended ability to imagine and reflect on scenarios and our insatiable drive to link our minds together These two traits explain how our species was able to amplify qualities that we inherited in parallel with our animal counterparts transforming animal communication into language memory into mental time travel sociality into mind reading problem solving into abstract reasoning traditions into culture and empathy into morality Suddendorf concludes with the provocative suggestion that our unrivalled status may be our own creation and that the gap is growing wider not so much because we are becoming smarter but because we are killing off our closest intelligent animal relatives Weaving together the latest findings in animal behavior child development anthropology psychology and neuroscience this book will change the way we think about our place in nature A major argument for reconsidering what makes us human The Gap is essential reading for anyone interested in our evolutionary origins and our relationship with the rest of the animal kingdom The Theosophical Path
