Fictions Of Modesty Fictions Of Modesty:

Fictions of Modesty Ruth Bernard Yeazell, 1991-06-25 Combining evidence from conduct books and ladies magazines with the arguments of influential theorists like Hume Rousseau and Wollstonecraft this book begins by asking why writers were devoted to the anxious remaking of women s nature and to codifying rules for their proper behavior Fictions of Modesty shows how the culture at once tried to regulate young women s desires and effectively opened up new possibilities of subjectivity and individual choice Yeazell goes on to demonstrate that modest delaying actions inform a central tradition of English narrative On the Continent the English believed the jeune fille went from the artificial innocence of the convent to an arranged marriage and adultery the natural modesty of the Englishwoman however enabled her to choose her own mate and to marry both prudently and with affection Rather than taking its narrative impetus from adultery then English fiction concentrated on courtship and the consciousness of the young woman choosing After paired studies of Richardson s Pamela and Cleland s Memoirs of a Woman of Pleasure even Fanny Hill Yeazell argues is a modest English heroine at heart Yeazell investigates what women novelists made of the virtues of modesty in works by Burney Austen Charlotte Bronte and Gaskell

Critical Modesty in Contemporary Fiction Thom Dancer, 2021 From climate catastrophe to pandemics and economic crises the problems facing humanity are dizzyingly complex and increasingly planetary in scale Critical Modesty in Contemporary Fiction argues for contemporary fiction s capacity to help those who may feel despair at the enormity of such problems not as one might think through the ambitious search for grand solutions but rather by inculcating a temperament of modesty This new temperament of critical modesty locates the fight for freedom and human dignity within the limited and compromised conditions in which we find ourselves Through readings of Ian McEwan Zadie Smith J M Coetzee and David Mitchell this volume shows how contemporary works of literature model modesty as a critical temperament Exploring modest forms of entangled human agency that represent an alternative to the novel of the large scale that have been most closely associated with the Anthropocene it makes the surprising yet compelling case that precisely by adopting a modest stance the novel actually has the potential to play a more important socio cultural role In doing so the book offers an engaging response to the debate over critical and surface readings bringing novels into the conversation and arguing for a fictional mode that is both critical and modest reminding us how much we are already engaged with the world implicated and compromised before we start developing theories writing stories or acting within it

Sentimental Fictions Sara Langer, 2002 This study focuses on language and power in selected works of sentimental literature by Hanasanjin a writer active during the Edo period 1603 1868 It opens with a critique of prior scholarly studies of this writer and continues with an investigation into the nature of Hanasanjin s style of sentimentality comparing it to the Heian aesthetic mono no aware and to the sentimentality of Clarissa 1748 by Samuel Richardson 1689 1761 The core of the dissertation is an analysis of the dynamics of persuasion within Hanasanjin's sentimental world The licensed quarter figures prominently in this conventionalized world and an investigation into the interactions of courtesans and clients permits speculation about power relations between the sexes In these tales persuasion pertains not to physical relations but to sincerity of affection The study dissects the give and take of communication by tracking the course of individual interpretations stories on the part of selected characters Stories set in conflict with one another form power plots or dialogues of competing interpretation Stories grouped together according to similar theme reveal fictions or conventionalized patterns of strategic narration such fictions of innocence happiness sincerity and so forth may be considered attempts to influence the way in which a given story is received In analyzing power dynamics the study reflects on the play of interpretation and response in three different contexts between characters within a tale between narratorial voice and anticipated reader and between author and historical reader In each case the ability to inspire the indulgence amae of the audience is found to be particularly important The ways in which conflicts of interpretation between characters are resolved suggest certain power differences that may be linked to gender The pairing of narratorial voice and anticipated reader highlights the limitations of narratorial control over interpretation Lastly the showdown between male author and female historical reader offers scope for speculation about the gender politics of the contemporary scene in general even as it calls attention to problems in current scholarly interpretations of that subject
