THE LION AND THE MOUSE

A lion was asleep in his den, when a mouse running over his side woke him. Looking at the mouse the lion roared with his huge paw and was about to kill it. The mouse, humbled, begged the lion to spare his life.

"Spare me?" it cried, "and one day I will repay you for your kindness." The idea of such a small creature ever being able to do anything for her creased the lion so much that he laughed aloud and good humoredly let her go. Never suspect, the mouse's chance came, after all.

One day the lion was tangled in a trap which had been set by some hunters, and the mouse heard and the lion's roar of anger and ran to him without stop. The mouse set its work to gnaw the ropes with its teeth, and succeeded before long in setting the lion free.

"How?" said the mouse, "you laughed at me when I promised I would repay you, but now you see, even a mouse can hold a lion!"
