Communication and Sport Andrew C. Billings, Michael L. Butterworth, 2021-02-09 Communication and Sport Surveying the Field provides students with an understanding of sports media rhetoric culture and organizations through an examination of a wide range of topics Authors Andrew C Billings and Michael L Butterworth address everything from youth to amateur to professional sports through varied lenses including mythology community and identity A comprehensive focus on communication scholarship gives attention to the ways that sports produce maintain or resist cultural attitudes about race gender sexuality class and politics The Fourth Edition includes new interviews with prominent figures in the field and new discussions on current events like the Black Lives Matter movement and the COVID 19 pandemic Fandom Power Ethan Parker, AI, 2025-03-29 Fandom Power explores the significant influence of fan communities on film television and the broader media landscape It examines how passionate fans impact media content sometimes even reviving canceled shows or pressuring creators to alter storylines The book highlights that fan activism has become a potent force demonstrating how consumer demand directly affects creative decisions For instance fans have utilized crowdfunding campaigns to support media projects and have organized online to influence production showcasing their ability to shape entertainment The book delves into the sociological underpinnings of fandom the economic impact of fan activism and the ethics of fan creator interactions It progresses across three sections introducing core concepts analyzing case studies of successful fan interventions and exploring future models for fan creator collaboration By drawing upon audience research social media analytics and interviews Fandom Power offers a novel perspective framing fan activism as a form of cultural production rather than mere consumer behavior The Rise of Transtexts Benjamin W.L. Derhy Kurtz, Mélanie Bourdaa, 2016-08-25 This volume builds on previous notions of transmedia practices to develop the concept of transtexts in order to account for both the industrial and user generated contributions to the cross media expansion of a story universe On the one hand exists industrial transmedia texts produced by supposedly authoritative authors or entities and directed to active audiences in the aim of fostering engagement On the other hand are fan produced transmedia texts primarily intended for fellow members of the fan communities with the Internet allowing for connections and collaboration between fans Through both case studies and more general analyses of audience participation and reception employing the artistic marketing textual industrial cultural social geographical technological historical financial and legal perspectives this multidisciplinary collection aims to expand our understanding of both transmedia storytelling and fan produced transmedia texts Roleplaying Games in the Digital Age Stephanie Hedge, Jennifer Grouling, 2021-02-18 The Digital Age has created massive technological and disciplinary shifts in tabletop role playing increasing the appreciation of games like Dungeons Dragons Millions tune in to watch and listen to RPG players on podcasts and streaming platforms while virtual tabletops connect online players Such shifts elicit new scholarly perspectives This collection includes essays on the transmedia ecology that has connected analog with digital and audio spaces Essays explore the boundaries of virtual tabletops and how users engage with a variety of technology to further role playing Authors map the growing diversity of the TRPG fandom and detail how players interact with RPG related podcasts Interviewed are content creators like Griffin McElroy of The Adventure Zone podcast Roll20 co creator Nolan T Jones board game designers Nikki Valens and Isaac Childres and fan artists Tracey Alvarez and Alex Schiltz These essays and interviews expand the academic perspective to reflect the future of role playing

Converging Media John Vernon Pavlik, Shawn McIntosh, 2004 Converging Media reflects the fundamental changes that digital technologies have made in the way people get their news and entertainment and conduct media commerce The book does not contend that every media product such as newspapers magazines or books are or ever will become digital Rather Converging Media proposes that the majority of the process of mass communication is or is becoming digital Publisher description

Youth, Identity, and Digital Media David Buckingham, 2008 The contributors explore how young people use digital media to share ideas and creativity and to participate in networks that are small and large local and global intimate and anonymous They look at the emergence of new genres and forms from SMS and instant messaging to home pages blogs and social networking sites They discuss such topics as girl power online the generational digital divide young people and mobile communication and the appeal of the digital publics of MySpace considering whether these media offer young people genuinely new forms of engagement interaction and communication language English abstract New media especially the personal computer play a significant part in people's private area as well as in the occupational area. Thus there is talk about transition of industrial society into an information society. Such transition has been fulfilled since the end of the 1960s and includes a digitalized and interconnected world for the greatest extent. Those changes affect the whole everyday reality: an increasingly number of the population spend their time in front of monitors inside a virtual reality. The internet and mobile devices facilitate communication with both familiar and unknown people all over the world. For the young generation the so called digital natives the constantly networking and opportunity of gaining knowledge easily became obviously. Furthermore the kind of learning has changed as well. Due to the digitalized world knowledge is not only represented differently but also accessible at any place and is not bound to a personal producer or mediator. The digital learners should not consume rehashed knowledge anymore but need to be able to have the ability to use available knowledge and information screen those usefully and thus reach efficient learning outcomes. Hence media literacy becomes a key qualification to participate in the information society. In the course of lifelong learning and concomitant increasingly compulsion to flexibility of learning weblogs as a form of e learning can represent an efficient media to realize a new culture of teaching and learning since contents are spread independently from place and time and are made available for the recipients. Besides the access to blogs created by people and companies all over the world enables an absorption and participation in foreign cultures values and perceptions by the digital learners. Blogs make our society more interconnected and self aware. By considering the aspects of education and intercultural learning written in the scholastic standards it is necessary to examine blogs concerning their features and potentials possible applications in the English foreign language classroom and finally to provide theory into a practical and realistic teaching unit of a 11th grade at a German advanced level of a high school.

Informal Learning and Digital Media Kirsten Drotner, Hans Siggaard Jensen, Kim Schrøder, 2008. The book provides an engaging overview of the ways in which digital media impact on current understandings of informal learning and it offers a range of grounded studies of the changing relations between digital media and informal learning processes with a particular focus on young people. A variety of international scholars examine these processes across a number of sites and settings from Japan to Finland and the USA and they discuss their implications for education ICT and media. The volume is an ideal resource for graduate students as well as for practitioners and policy makers.
