INTERACTIONS WITH OTHER PARALYSING AGENTS

These dependent variables, like growth rates of revenues and shareholders' equity, are a function of the dependent variable, sales, and of other independent variables, like R&D, advertising, etc. It is not evident that the hypothesized causal process actually runs in the proposed direction. Thus, the causal model is not necessarily a model of the causal process, and it is not necessarily a model of the business effect, any more than it is a process model.

Anticardiolipin antibodies are associated with thrombotic disorders, particularly deep venous thrombosis (DVT), and have been associated with the development of hyperphosphatemia in patients on dialysis. These antibodies are associated with a form of anti- $\beta_2$ -glycoprotein I antibody syndrome, which is usually associated with the clinical picture.

European professional organizations, especially in a globalizing situation, all focus on their results in organizational development, innovation, productivity, and more or less financial goals. They therefore do not focus on their professional knowledge and skills. This suggests that the effect of focus on all areas that are necessary to develop an organization is better than those who only focus on one.
