Displacement Identity And Belonging An Arts Based Autobiographical Portrayal Of:

Displacement, Identity and Belonging Alexandra J. Cutcher, 2015-04-27 Displacement Identity and Belonging is a book about difference. It deals with ethnicity, migration, place, marginalisation, memory and constructions of the self. The arts-based and auto-biographical performance of the many voices in the text compliment and interrupt each other to create a polyvocal rendition of experience. The text unfolds through fiction, memoir, legend, artworks, photographs, poetry and theory, historical, cultural and political perspectives. As such, it is a book that confronts what an academic text can be. Written in the present tense, it weaves its narrative around one small Hungarian migrant family in Australia who are not particularly special or extraordinary. Their experience may appear at least on first blush to be paralleled by the post-war diasporic experience for a range of nations and peoples. However, in many ways, this is not necessarily so. It is this crucial aspect of the idiosyncrasies of difference that is at the core of this work. The layering of stories and artworks build upon each other in an engaging and accessible reading that appeals to a multitude of audiences and purposes. The book makes significant contributions to the literature on qualitative research and in particular to arts-based research, auto-biographical research and autoethnographic research. Displacement Identity and Belonging is in itself an experience of journey in the reading, powerfully demonstrating a life forever in transit. This work can be used as a core reading in a range of courses in education, teacher education, ethnicity studies, cultural studies, sociology, psychology, history and communication or simply for pleasure. Displacement Identity and Belonging offers an excellent example of the use of novel approaches to social research that are designed to raise important questions and provide unique insights. The multigenerational perspective of Hungarian migrants to and immigrants in Australia disclosed and examined herein is not merely a fascinating and urgent topic in itself. It also encourages and enables the reader to imagine analogous social phenomena in other places and times. This fact in conjunction with an extraordinarily effective format is what makes this for readers of all sorts an important and empowering book, one that I heartily recommend.

Tom Barone, Professor Emeritus, Arizona State University, USA. Dr Alexandra Cutcher is a multi-award-winning academic at Southern Cross University, Australia. Her research focuses on what the Arts can be and do educationally, expressively, as research method, language, catharsis, reflective instrument and documented form. These understandings inform Alexandra's teaching and her spirited advocacy for Arts education.

"Biography, Identity and the Modern Interior" Penny Sparke, 2017-07-05. Through a series of case studies from the mid-eighteenth century to the start of the twenty-first, this collection of essays considers the historical insights that ethno-auto-biographical investigations into the lives of individuals, groups and interiors can offer design and architectural historians. Established scholars and emerging researchers shed light on the methodological issues that arise from the use of these sources to explore the history of the interior as a site in which everyday life is experienced and performed and the ways in which contemporary architects and interior designers draw on personal and collective histories in their practice. Historians and theorists working within a range of disciplinary contexts and historiographical traditions are turning to biography as means of exploring and accounting for social cultural and material change and this volume reflects that turn representing the fields of architectural and design history social history literary history creative writing and design practice Topics include masters and servants in eighteenth century English kitchens the lost interiors of Oscar Wilde's House Beautiful Elsa Schiaparelli's Surrealist spaces Jean Genet outlaws and the interiors of marginality and architect Lina Bo Bardi's Glass House S Paulo Brazil

Spaces of Belonging Elizabeth H. Jones, 2007-01-01 Questions of space place and identity have become increasingly prominent throughout the arts and humanities in recent times This study begins by investigating the reasons for this growth in interest and analyses the underlying assumptions on which interdisciplinary discussions about space are often based After tracing back the history of contact between Geography and Literary Studies from both disciplinary perspectives it goes on to discuss recent academic work in the field and seeks to forge a new conceptual framework through which contemporary discussions of space and literature can operate The book then moves on to a thorough application of the interdisciplinary model that it has established Having argued that the experience of contemporary space has rendered questions of home and belonging particularly pressing it undertakes detailed analysis of how these phenomena are articulated in a selection of recent French life writing texts The close text led readings reveal that whilst not often highlighted for their relevance to the analysis of space these works do in fact narrate the impact of some of the most significant cultural experiences of the twentieth century including the Holocaust and the AIDS crisis upon geo cultural senses of identity Home is shown to be a deeply problematic yet strongly desired element of the contemporary world The book concludes by addressing the underlying thesis that contemporary life writing might provide just the postmodern maps that could help not only literary scholars but also geographers better understand the world today Key names and concepts Serge Doubrovsky Herv Guibert Fredric Jameson Philippe Lejeune Romain Robison Autofiction Cultural Geography Interdisciplinarity Place and Identity Postmodernism Space Postmodern Space Literary Studies Twentieth Century Life Writing Displacement Stories of Identity and Belonging Andrea Levy, Shereen Pandit, Saeed Taji Farouky, Jhumpa Lahiri, Qaisra Shahraz, 2020-08-18 Diese Sammlung von

Identity Displacement as Material in Contemporary Art and Art Therapy Farah Salem Alhaidar, 2019 This thesis aims to explore identity displacement and its intersectional extensions through a non traditional mixed methods research which pulls from art based and heuristic methods The conceptual material exploration finds links between contemporary art and art therapy practices bridged by activism The research and artmaking process include redefining roles of access agency and power moving from conceptual material exploration and into working with a physical material host which in this research is a veiling garment named abaya With this material a body of artwork was exhibited along with socially active public events that served as a case study In this study the socio cultural and historical invisibly visible qualities of the abaya correspond with displaced identities due to systematic marginalization Resulting in finding a new model and critical lens to operate from which considers the role of multiplicity

Explorations of Exile, Bilingualism and Identity in the Autobiographical Works of Nancy Huston and Eva Hoffman Kathrin Marisa Leimig, 2011-02-22 Essay from the year 2008 in the subject Politics Topic Globalization Political Economics grade 2 0 University of Southampton School of Humanities course Cultural Flows language English abstract The postmodern notions of exile and displacement are contested among scholars as their applications constantly undergo further transformation and modification Especially the effects of globalization including economic mass migration and other transnational population movements have contributed to add a multiplicity of variations to their original denotation Whilst in Greco Roman Antiquity exile was coined as label for an individual banishment from a centre of civilization in a postmodern context it refers to both a voluntary or involuntary human condition Yet beyond doubt one must clearly distinguish between the different exilic experiences of various groups such as refugees expatriates migr's emigrants and so on because they differ in modalities and circumstances it is obvious that enforced political displacement under harsh conditions and to an undesired place has a much more traumatic impact on self identity than for example a planned migration for economic reasons Yet exile was never a unitary category as it can refer to specific social and political conditions Even though it is often used as an umbrella term the motivations or direct causes to leave one's country of origin can be as manifold as the various exilic realities in the host countries Still what all exiles have in common is the fact that they leave behind their home country in exchange for a life abroad Nevertheless in this context there are two questions that are crucial has the exile chosen to leave or was s/he forced to do so And is s/he part of a safety net or does s/he come to the host country unprotected
