The Eclectic Medical Journal ,1927      The American Journal of the Medical Sciences ,1903      The Signs of Language Edward S. Klima,Ursula Bellugi,1979 In a book with far reaching implications Edward S Klima and Ursula Bellugi present a full exploration of a language in another mode a language of the hands and of the eyes They discuss the origin and development of American Sign Language the internal structure of its basic units the grammatical processes it employs and its heightened use in poetry and wit The authors draw on research much of it by and with deaf people to answer the crucial question of what is fundamental to language as language and what is determined by the mode vocal or gestural in which a language is produced      Introduction to Configural Frequency Analysis Alexander von Eye,1990-05-25 This is a comprehensive introduction to configural frequency analysis its rationale and various modifications When more individuals than expected display a pattern of characteristics these individuals belong to a type When fewer individuals than expected display a pattern they belong to an antitype This book deals with methods that focus on groups of subjects in contingency tables A many faceted statistical method CFA is useful whenever categorical variables are analyzed The original contribution of this text is the linking of CFA to log linear modeling and the general linear model enabling the reader to relate CFA to a well known statistical background      The Signs of Sin Jonathan P. Burnside,2003-05-01 What makes one crime more serious than another and why This book investigates the problem of seriousness of offence in English law from the comparative perspective of biblical law Burnside takes a semiotic approach to show how biblical conceptions of seriousness are synthesised and communicated through various descriptive and performative registers Seven case studies show that biblical law discriminates between the seriousness of different offences and between the relative seriousness of the same offence when committed by different people or when performed in different ways Recurring elements include location and the offender s social status The closing chapter considers some of the implications for the current debate about crime and punishment      The New York Journal of Gynaecology and Obstetrics ,1894      A Reference Handbook of the Medical Sciences Embracing the Entire Range of Scientific and Practical Medicine and Allied Science ,1900      The Refractionist ,1926      A Text-book of medicine for students and practitioners v. 1 Adolf von Strümpell,1911      The Heart and Circulation ,1965      The Signs of a Savant Neil Smith,Ianthi Tsimpli,Gary Morgan,Bencie Woll,2010-12-02 Every once in a while nature gives us insight into the human condition by providing us with a unique case whose special properties illuminate the species as a whole Christopher is such an example Despite disabilities which mean that everyday tasks are burdensome chores Christopher is a linguistic wonder who can read write speak understand and translate more than twenty languages On some tests he shows a severely low IQ hinting at ineducability yet his English language ability indicates an IQ in excess of 120 a level more than sufficient to enter university Christopher is a savant someone with an island of startling talent in a sea of inability This book documents his learning of British Sign Language casting light on the modularity of
