Ryan, 2010-03-29 Vascular diseases of the retina are a major cause of blindness among all age groups Edited and written by internationally well known experts this state of the art comprehensive overview of basic and clinical science will enhance the understanding of retinal vascular disease and help in the evaluation of current and future treatment approaches for the clinician The well structured and highly illustrated text is divided into three easy to follow sections This unique textbook atlas also includes topics which are not currently found in other retinal disease textbooks such as case reports and clinical follow ups The Diseases and Treatment of the Investing Tissues of the Teeth (Classic Reprint) Arthur Davenport Black, 2018-02-24 Excerpt from The Diseases and Treatment of the Investing Tissues of the Teeth The periodontal membrane is defined as the soft tissue which serves to connect the root of the tooth with the bone of the alveolar process We might refer to it as the connecting link between chronic infection of the mouth and the general health since there is practically always a break in this tissue which permits the infective agent to enter the circulation and be carried to distant parts We might also think of this tissue as that which must bind together the medical and dental professions in their fight against the ever increasing list of diseases which are recognized as occurring secondary to focal infections We are concerned chiefly with the dentist's part in protecting the health of his patients but we will not overlook his duty to conserve the teeth Disease of the periodontal membrane does not occur except as a result of 1 a preceding gingivitis or 2 the death of the dental pulp In the one case there may occur a detachment of the tissue from the cementum beginning at the gingival line of the tooth with the formation of a pus pocket alongside the root in the other the detachment occurs about the apex of the root with the development of a chronic alveolar abscess It will be noted later that the pathological changes in both cases are similar and that we are confronted with the same difficulties in protecting the general health from the effects of these foci We will come to realize also that the danger to health demands the elimination of all such foci About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works New Zealand Dental Journal ,1937 Classics in Voice and Laryngology Ryan C. Branski,2009 A superb collection of carefully selected reprinted articles classified into fifteen subject groups from laryngeal framework and endoscopic surgery through anatomy to clinical voice disorders and therapies and more each of which includes a commentary by leading contemporary professionals The editors recognize that the field of laryngology and voice represents a small niche within the small niche of otolaryngology As such it is unlikely that works seminal to the advancement of the field will ever be recognized in the context of science in general However many publications have significantly altered the way voice production is conceptualized as well as shifted treatment paradigms for patients with voice disorders Thus in bringing this collection together for the first time they have admirably achieved their threefold aim to recognize great contributions to the field to provide a written history of the field and to provide a compilation of landmark manuscripts in the field of laryngology and voice science for both current clinician scientists as well as future contributors to the field
